Celebrating Excellence, Inspiring Growth & Building a Legacy Together

“Great organizations are not built by strategy alone; they are built by people who choose excellence every single day.”

Dear Suryojasvis,

Every edition of Suryojasvi Times captures more than just events and achievements—it captures the spirit of a community committed to learning, growing, and creating meaningful impact.

This month has been especially inspiring. From the launch of Leadership 101 to the energy and sportsmanship of SCL 2026, we witnessed countless moments that reflected our culture of ownership, teamwork, and excellence.

As you turn these pages, I invite you to celebrate not only the milestones we achieved, but also the people behind them—the leaders, learners, innovators, and silent contributors who make Suryojasvi what it is today.

Thank you for being an integral part of this journey of brilliance, purpose, and growth.

Appo Deepo Bhava — Be the Light and Spread the Light.*

THE GRAND CHRONICLES OF SCL SEASON 2: FROM BIDS TO THE GLORY DAYS

The January Spark & The Grand Auction Room

The journey didn't begin under the blazing May sun; it started on a crisp Monday afternoon in January. When the registration email dropped, it carried a massive twist that sent shockwaves through our Slack channels and coffee breaks: The Auction Edition.

No pre-selected teams. No playing it safe with your usual desk neighbors. Every single registered player from Bangalore and beyond was thrown into a massive, IPL-style auction pool.

For the Team Captains, the pressure was immense. Armed with virtual budgets and strategic dreams, they had to build their squads from scratch. The room was buzzing with tension, tactical outbidding, and laughs as coworkers from different Strategic Business Units (SBUs)—from Trasccon and Wyzmindz to Asteya, Autosherpa, and Idamtat—were grouped into brand-new, formidable alliances.

The Blueprint of Fairness: To keep the scales perfectly balanced, Trasccon held its own standalone auction, while the other SBUs battled it out in a parallel draft. It wasn't just about cricket; it was a deliberate masterclass in breaking silos, building trust, and forcing us to collaborate with people we had never spoken to before.

THE JOURNEY BEFORE THE FIRST BALL

*More Than a Tournament.
A Celebration of the Suryojasvi Spirit.*

01. THE BEGINNING OF THE MADNESS

- ★ It started with a simple announcement.
- ★ A mail that sparked excitement across every SBU.
- ★ Lunch breaks turned into cricket discussions.
- ★ Hidden talents stepped forward.
- ★ Captains began planning.
- ★ Teams began dreaming.
- ★ Then came the IPL-style Auction.
- ★ For the first time, players weren't choosing teams—teams were choosing players.
- ★ Every bid carried anticipation.
- ★ Every selection created excitement.
- ★ And before anyone realized it, SCL had already taken over Suryojasvi.

02. MORE THAN CRICKET

- ★ What made SCL special wasn't just competition.
- ★ People who had never worked together became teammates.
- ★ Colleagues became practice partners.
- ★ Managers became cheerleaders.
- ★ Departments became dressing rooms.
- ★ Cricket became the common language that connected everyone beyond designations, teams, and daily work.
- ★ SCL wasn't creating players.

It was creating relationships.

03. WEEKS OF PREPARATION & PASSION

- ★ As tournament day approached, weekends became team meetings.
- ★ Strategies were discussed.
- ★ Fitness routines started.
- ★ Practice sessions extended beyond office hours.
- ★ Some came to play.
- ★ Some came to support.
- ★ Some came simply to cheer for their friends.
- ★ Despite deadlines and responsibilities, the passion never slowed down.
- ★ Because this was never just about cricket.
- ★ It was about commitment, enthusiasm, and creating memories together.

“BEFORE THE FIRST TOSS WAS CALLED,
SCL HAD ALREADY WON.”

It had brought people together.

SCL 2026 - Through the Lens

(Capturing the Spirit, Energy & Emotions of the League)

A Sneak Peek Into SCL 2026

More Than Cricket. More Than Competition. A Celebration of the Suryojasvi Spirit.

As you turn these pages, you are not just looking at photographs—you are stepping back into two unforgettable days that brought together passion, teamwork, dedication, and countless memories.

From the very first toss of the tournament to the moment the champions lifted the coveted trophy, every frame tells a story. A story of determination, sportsmanship, laughter, friendships, and the incredible spirit that defines Suryojasvi.

These glimpses capture much more than boundaries, wickets, and victories. They capture teammates cheering from the sidelines, families proudly supporting their loved ones, colleagues becoming teammates, and competitors becoming friends.

You will witness moments of pure joy, nail-biting finishes, roaring celebrations, and the unwavering commitment of our players. Some of our warriors even brought their laptops to the ground, ensuring client commitments remained uninterrupted while they pursued their passion on the cricket field. That is the true Suryojasvi way—balancing responsibility with enthusiasm, dedication with celebration.

You'll also see our founders and leaders standing shoulder-to-shoulder with every participant, encouraging, applauding, and celebrating each effort, reminding us that at Suryojasvi, every player matters and every contribution counts.

Within these pages are smiles that words cannot fully describe, emotions that statistics cannot capture, and memories that will remain long after the final scorecard is forgotten.

Building Leaders, Creating Impact

The Launch of Leadership 101 at Suryo Group

At the Suryo Group, growth has always been measured not just by outcomes, but by the capability we build in people to create meaningful and lasting impact. Taking another important step in this direction, we are delighted to announce the launch of Leadership 101—an 8-week leadership development initiative spearheaded by Chetan Khosla.

Designed as a focused and immersive learning journey, the program is being conducted every Friday through dedicated two-hour sessions, bringing together a select group of Suryos for deep learning, meaningful reflection, and growth-oriented dialogue. Far more than a conventional training program, Leadership 101 represents a deliberate investment in strengthening the leadership muscle within the organisation.

At its core, the initiative is aimed at nurturing future-ready leaders—individuals who can think with clarity, take ownership, make sound decisions, influence positively, and drive measurable impact within their teams and across the organisation. Through practical insights, shared experiences, reflective discussions, and leadership perspectives from Chetan Sir, participants are being encouraged to deepen their self-awareness and expand their ability to lead with purpose and responsibility.

What makes Leadership 101 especially meaningful is its focus on leadership as a capability that can be consciously developed—not by designation, but by mindset, action, and everyday choices. By creating a space for thoughtful learning and honest conversations, the initiative seeks to build stronger decision-makers and more empowered contributors across the Suryo ecosystem.

As the program unfolds over the coming weeks, Leadership 101 promises to become more than a classroom experience—it is a step towards strengthening a culture where learning is continuous, leadership is nurtured intentionally, and impact remains at the heart of everything we do.

Building Bridges for Greater Impact: Asteya at the Dhwani Workshop, Chennai

Asteya recently marked an important milestone in strengthening its presence within the social impact ecosystem through its participation in the Dhwani (Saksham) Workshop held in Chennai. Representing Asteya, Thangamani and Guruprasad joined a vibrant gathering of 32 grassroots NGOs from across Tamil Nadu, creating a valuable space for dialogue, learning, and collaboration.

The workshop served as a meaningful platform for organisations committed to grassroots transformation to come together, exchange experiences, and explore opportunities to collectively create greater impact. Adding to the significance of the event, Thangamani introduced Asteya to the cohort, thoughtfully sharing our mission, work, and the value we strive to create in the communities we engage with.

The interactions opened doors to deeper conversations around shared challenges, emerging opportunities, and possible avenues for collaboration with like-minded organisations. Beyond creating awareness about Asteya's initiatives, the participation reflected our continued commitment to engaging closely with grassroots institutions and contributing meaningfully to the larger development ecosystem.

As Asteya continues its journey of impact, such engagements play an important role in expanding networks, fostering partnerships, and strengthening relationships that can create lasting social change.

Turning Customer Voices into Action: A Smart Automation by TransMon

At TransMon, continuous improvement is not just an aspiration—it is a way of working. Demonstrating this spirit of innovation, Rohit Meena has introduced a valuable enhancement to streamline how customer appreciation and feedback are captured, organized, and transformed into meaningful insights.

Earlier, feedback from key strategic clients, including Axis Bank, often remained scattered across emails, chats, and informal conversations. While valuable appreciation and suggestions were being shared, the lack of a centralized system made it challenging to consolidate testimonials, identify patterns, and derive actionable insights for service improvement.

Recognizing this gap, an Automated Feedback Module has now been implemented within TransMon, bringing structure, visibility, and efficiency to customer feedback management.

The newly introduced system enables instant digital feedback collection, standardized ratings, downloadable feedback cards, and real-time visibility into service quality trends. What was once a fragmented and manual process has now evolved into a streamlined, centralized platform—reducing dependency on manual tracking and significantly improving operational effectiveness.

Driving Impact Across the Business

The shift from manual processes to automation is already creating measurable value across multiple dimensions:

Operational Excellence

- Reduced manual effort in collecting and compiling feedback
- Faster turnaround in capturing customer responses
- A centralized repository serving as a single source of truth for testimonials and ratings

Strategic Value

- Greater visibility of customer success stories across leadership teams
- Stronger brand positioning through authentic customer endorsements
- Enhanced stakeholder confidence backed by measurable satisfaction metrics

Empowering Teams

- Recognition of employee efforts reinforced through direct customer appreciation
- Improved motivation through transparent and visible positive feedback
- Continuous Improvement
- Early identification of service gaps
- Actionable insights to drive ongoing service enhancement
- Encouraging Early Results

The early outcomes from the module have been promising and reflective of its potential impact:

- Total Feedback Captured: 39 and growing
- Positive Feedback (Rating 4–5): 28 (~74%)
- Neutral Feedback (Rating 3): 3 (~8%)
- Improvement Areas (Rating ≤2): 7 (~18%)

This initiative stands as a strong example of how TransMon is not only delivering value externally to clients but also strengthening internal excellence through thoughtful automation. What was once manual, scattered, and easily forgotten has now become structured, visible, and truly valuable—turning customer voices into a powerful driver for growth and improvement.

Badge of Honor

Innovation is not just about ideas—it is about the courage to challenge the ordinary, the passion to create something meaningful, and the determination to make a difference. At the May WOW Festival, Suryojasvis across the Group demonstrated exactly that through remarkable automations, breakthrough innovations, and impactful achievements that reflected the spirit of progress and excellence.

The Badge of Honor is our way of recognizing those exceptional individuals who transformed ideas into action and showcased solutions that inspire us to think differently.

What stood out during the WOW Festival is the mindset of ownership, continuous improvement, and an unwavering commitment to making things better. These achievements are a reminder that innovation does not always begin with grand changes; often, it starts with a simple question: “How can we do this better?”

The Badge of Honor celebrates our changemakers—the individuals who embraced challenges, pushed boundaries, and demonstrated what is possible when passion meets purpose.

As we applaud these achievements, we celebrate something even greater—the collective spirit of Suryojasvi. A spirit that encourages every individual to innovate fearlessly, contribute meaningfully, and grow continuously.

FROM A QUESTION TO A COMMITMENT

(Seven Years of Learning, Leadership & Friendship)

-By Sushruth Vasista

It started with a phone call I wasn't entirely expecting. A consultancy reached out about an opening for a Service Delivery Manager.

My daughter was barely six months old, the office was conveniently close to home, and the role matched my background almost too well. It felt too good to be true — and for a few days after my first interview, I was convinced it was. The recruiter went quiet, and I had mentally moved on.

Then came the call for the final round. I still remember sitting just next to Rudrappa sir's cabin — the spot that later became the HR section in the old building — waiting to meet Vishy sir and Chetan sir. The discussion with Chetan sir stretched well past an hour. At some point, he asked me directly: "How can you assure me you will stay with us for more than two years?" — a fair question, given that none of my earlier stints had crossed that mark. It hit me harder than I expected. The interview ended, the offer came, and on the 6th of May 2019, I walked in as Service Delivery Manager on the Lenovo account.

I don't think anything quite prepares you for your first weekend on the job. Within days of joining, I found myself at the meeting room in the old building on both Saturday and Sunday, working until 8 in the evening to get reports submitted on time. It was intense, it was overwhelming, and honestly — it set the tone for everything that followed. Welcome to WyzMindZ! What I hadn't anticipated, though, was how quickly the place would feel like home. The culture here is something I struggle to put into words — it's close-knit in a way that's genuinely rare. Every casual conversation during a break with Vishy sir or Mahi sir carried something in it — a perspective, a quiet nudge, a bit of wisdom that didn't announce itself. Those weren't formal mentoring sessions by any stretch, but they shaped how I think about work and people more than I give them credit for.

One unexpected phone call became a seven-year journey of growth, trust, and belonging.

There's a kind of learning that only happens when you're around the right people at the right time, and I've been lucky that way. Some of my favourite memories aren't from boardrooms but from a bus ride to Coorg in January 2020 — just weeks before the world changed. The finance and HR teams, all of us together, singing old songs with Chetan sir, Vishy sir, and Mahi sir. Nobody had a care in the world. We had absolutely no idea what was coming. I'm glad we didn't.

And then, of course, the world did change.

When the Covid lockdown hit, most organisations scrambled. For us, the priority was clear — make sure the business doesn't stop. I remember the urgency of those early days, setting up servers, putting together a small but functional office setup in my house, making sure the entire reporting system was up and running without a break. What made it possible wasn't just the hard work — it was the trust. Vishy sir gave me the space and the confidence to take it on, and that meant everything. ShivaChetana and I spent hours together, troubleshooting, configuring, pushing through — determined that our clients wouldn't feel a thing. Looking back, it's one of those periods I'm genuinely proud of.

Not just because it worked, but because of what it said about the team and the trust we had in each other.

Six months into the job, I had my first real disagreement with a colleague — a young, freshly hired, rather opinionated fellow who had just stepped out of college. We argued over a hiring decision I had made. That colleague is today none other than the 40 Under 40 recognised Mr. Shreyas K from AutoShrepa, and one of my closest friends at work. That argument aged rather well, I'd say. And there was an unexpected silver lining to all of it. With the work-from-home setup in place, I suddenly found myself with something I hadn't had enough of since joining — time at home. My daughter was a little over a year and a half then, and those months of being around her more, watching her grow, being present in a way that a regular office schedule doesn't always allow — that's something I quietly treasure from an otherwise difficult time.

Over the years, I've worn more hats than I initially signed up for — sales, marketing, helping Vishy sir shape new products, and now as Assistant General Manager, setting up what I think is one of our most exciting new ventures on ADVAITA. The roles have changed, the responsibilities have grown, and somewhere along the way, so have I. The person who walked in nervously for that final round interview is not quite the same person writing this today — and I mean that in the best possible way.

What has remained constant, through every role and every phase, is the people. Daya, Navaneeth, Lohith, Shiva Chetana — every single person in this team has shown up for me, without exception. Disagreements have happened, sometimes heated ones, but never once did they spill beyond the moment or leave a mark on the relationship. That's not something you find everywhere, and I've never taken it for granted.

A very special and heartfelt shout-out to Rudrappa sir, Singh sir, Naveen sir, and Sacchin sir — for the mentoring, the guidance, and for never once making me feel like any ask was too small. Every bit of support I've approached them with has been met with generosity and warmth, and that has meant more than I can say.

What keeps me here? Simply put — trust. The trust that every member of the MCOM team member places in me, every single day. That's not something you walk away from easily, and honestly, I have no intention of doing so.

Seven years ago, Chetan sir asked me how long I planned to stay. I didn't have a great answer then. I think I do now.

And while I've shared only a few special moments here, the learnings and experiences from this organisation are truly enough to fill a complete book — and what a book that would be

MY 7-YEAR JOURNEY – A STORY OF GROWTH, GRATITUDE, AND TRANSFORMATION. FROM DAY ONE TO TODAY

-By Pradeep Kumar

When I first walked into this organization seven years ago, I came with dreams, determination, and a willingness to learn. Like many young professionals starting their careers, I did not have much experience, resources, or achievements to my name. What I did have was a strong desire to work hard and build a better future for myself and my family.

Looking back Today, I can proudly say that joining this company was one of the most important decisions of my life.

My first day was filled with excitement and nervousness. Everything was new—the people, the processes, the responsibilities, and the expectations. However, from the very beginning, I was welcomed into an environment that encouraged learning, teamwork, and growth. My colleagues made me feel comfortable, patiently guided me, and helped me understand not just my job but also the values that define this organization.

Throughout my journey, I have been fortunate to work with managers who believed in my potential even when I was still learning. They trusted me with responsibilities, corrected me when I made mistakes, and continuously encouraged me to improve. Their mentorship played a crucial role in shaping my professional growth and building my confidence.

I am equally grateful to the management team and our respected Directors, whose vision and leadership have created a workplace where employees are empowered to succeed. Their support was never limited to business goals alone; they genuinely cared about the growth and well-being of every individual. Knowing that the leadership team valued our efforts motivated me to give my best every single day.

Over these seven years, I have witnessed many challenges, changes, and milestones. Each experience taught me valuable lessons. Every project, every achievement, and even every setback became an opportunity to learn and become stronger. The company provided me with opportunities that helped me develop new skills, gain confidence, and grow both professionally and personally.

The greatest achievement of this journey is not just the experience I have gained but the transformation I have undergone as a person. When I joined, I was starting from scratch. Today, I have earned knowledge, confidence, financial stability, and most importantly, the respect and trust of my colleagues and leaders. The recognition I receive Today is the result of collective support, guidance, and encouragement from everyone around me.

One of the most valuable aspects of my journey has been the relationships I have built. My colleagues have never been just co-workers; they have been mentors, friends, and a support system. Their cooperation, encouragement, and team spirit have made every challenge easier and every success more meaningful.

This organization has not only helped me build a career but has also helped me build a better life. The opportunities provided here have enabled me to achieve personal milestones, support my family, and pursue my aspirations with confidence. The respect I receive Today, both within and outside the workplace, is a reflection of the culture, values, and opportunities this company has provided.

As I complete seven years with this organization, my heart is filled with gratitude. I am thankful to every colleague who supported me, every manager who guided me, every leader who believed in me, and every team member who walked alongside me during this journey.

Seven years ago, I joined this company with hope. Today, I stand here with experience, confidence, achievements, and countless memories. The journey has been remarkable, and I am proud to be a part of an organization that continuously invests in people and helps them become the best version of themselves.

I look forward to continuing this journey, contributing to the organization's success, and creating many more milestones together.

"From having very little to building a meaningful career, from learning the basics to earning respect and recognition, my seven-year journey is proof that with the right opportunities, guidance, and support, growth becomes limitless."

“ Leadership needs story telling. If you can't tell a story, you can't lead ”

Success stories often begin with privilege, access, or opportunity. But some stories stand apart—built not on abundance, but on grit, resilience, and an unshakable belief in possibility. The journey of Dr. Arokiaswamy Velumani, founder of Thyrocare Technologies, is one such extraordinary story of determination, discipline, and dreaming beyond limitations.

Born in 1959 in a small village near Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu, Dr. Velumani grew up in a humble family of limited means. The son of a landless farmer, life was far from easy. Financial struggles were a constant reality, and resources were scarce. Yet, adversity became his greatest teacher. Education, for him, was not merely a path to knowledge—it was the doorway to transforming his family's future.

After completing his graduation in Chemistry, Dr. Velumani moved to Mumbai in search of opportunities. He joined the prestigious Bhabha Atomic Research Centre (BARC), beginning his career modestly as a laboratory assistant and eventually rising to the position of scientist. While working full-time, he pursued higher education relentlessly, earning both his Master's degree and a doctorate in Thyroid Biochemistry from the University of Mumbai. His years at BARC not only strengthened his scientific expertise but also laid the foundation for a vision that would later redefine diagnostics in India.

In 1996, driven by conviction and armed with little more than expertise and determination, Dr. Velumani took a bold leap into entrepreneurship. With limited savings and no safety net, he founded Thyrocare Technologies, initially focused on thyroid testing. His vision was simple yet revolutionary—to make diagnostic testing affordable, accessible, and standardized across India. At a time when healthcare diagnostics were expensive and fragmented, Thyrocare introduced a centralized, technology-driven model that brought quality healthcare within reach of millions.

What made Thyrocare truly unique was not just its business model, but Dr. Velumani's philosophy of frugality, efficiency, and scale. He believed that innovation was not always about spending more; often, it was about simplifying better. Under his leadership, Thyrocare grew into one of India's largest diagnostic networks, with thousands of collection centres across the country and beyond. The company's landmark IPO in 2016 was oversubscribed multiple times, firmly establishing Thyrocare as a trusted healthcare brand.

Yet, what makes Dr. Velumani particularly inspiring is not merely his business success, but his outlook on life. Even after building a multi-crore enterprise, he continues to speak openly about simplicity, discipline, and the value of hardships. He often credits poverty as one of his greatest strengths, believing that struggles teach resilience, patience, and gratitude—qualities that comfort rarely imparts. His candid life lessons on career, learning, and personal growth continue to resonate deeply with professionals and aspiring entrepreneurs alike.

Dr. Velumani's story is a powerful reminder that greatness does not depend on where we begin—it depends on how courageously we move forward. From studying under difficult circumstances to building one of India's most respected diagnostic companies, his journey reflects the extraordinary power of perseverance, lifelong learning, and purpose-driven leadership.

In a world often obsessed with shortcuts, Dr. Velumani stands as a symbol of patient success—proof that with focus, humility, and determination, even the humblest beginnings can lead to remarkable destinations.

Beliefs We Stand For
Melody of Our Culture

CRYSTAL CLEAR IDENTITY, DAILY REMEMBERED

Every organisation has rituals, but at Suryo, we have something deeper— a daily moment that reconnects us to our identity, our purpose, and our shared destiny.

Every day at 11:00 AM, across all our companies, one powerful practice unites us:

- We play the Suryo Song.
- We recite the Suryo Mahavakyas.

These are not just words or melodies. They are the soul of who we are, the codes we live by, and the values that shape us.

In a world full of noise, speed, and constant change, this daily ritual becomes a pause—

- a moment to return to our center
- to remember what we stand for
- to realign with the brilliance we are committed to becoming.

The Suryo Song reminds us of our spirit of our joy, our unity, our courage, and our commitment to be increasingly useful, grateful, and joyful.

It binds us together as one family with one purpose.

The Suryo Mahavakyas remind us of our promises—to learn, to serve, to solve, to create, and to become the light that elevates industries and the world around us.

Through these daily practices, we reaffirm:

- We are Suryos.
- We are devoted to brilliance.
- We rise with purpose.
- We walk together.

A world-class organisation begins with world-class intention—reminded every day.

And we build, every day, a world-class organisation guided by intention, humility, and service.

This ritual is more than a habit.

it is our gratitude in action—gratitude for our journey, our people, our purpose, and for the chance to grow and evolve together.
